

Coleman quits, third time seat vacant

Gerald Loeb
Staff Writer

For the third time in less than a year, there is a vacancy on the Hartnell Board of Trustees, for the representative from Castroville and North Monterey County.

Mrs. Celeste Coleman announced her resignation, effective next Monday Sept. 20, at Tuesday night's Hartnell Board meeting. She called her 5-month term rewarding and gratifying.

All of the vacancies have been from the Castroville-North Monterey area. When Ben Anguiano moved out of the area last summer, he had to give up his seat. After his resignation, the board appointed Daniel J. Krishun to serve out the 3-year term. He took the office as a provisional member last Sept. 30.

But a Nov. 18 petition filed by the citizens of the Castroville-North Monterey area ousted Krishun from office. Mrs. Coleman then won a special election on March 2.

Mrs. Coleman is being transferred by the Army, her employer, from Fort Ord to Fort Riley, Kan. She called the move an advancement in her career, saying it was a "chance too good to pass up." Her term is open until 1979.

In the March 2 election, Mrs. Coleman polled 1,671 votes, 38.4 per cent while runner-up Dan Krishun received 837 votes.

"It is with deep regret that I leave the office. I will fondly remember my service and the feeling of contentment that it gave me," wrote Mrs. Coleman in her resignation letter.

"She was a hard worker. She did the office justice," Superintendent

Dr. Gibb Madsen said. "She kept us honest," replied Board member James Schwefel.

When asked if the board had decided to appoint an interim member under a provisional policy, Dr. Madsen replied that the subject would be taken up at the next board meeting on Sept. 21.

In other board actions last Tuesday night, the Board:

□ approved the donation of a 14-volume collection of the International Library of Music to the music department by Dr. Vahe' Aslanian.

□ accepted the bequest for the Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Albertsen Loan Fund in the amount of $11,429.08 to be used as a fund for needy students from Hartnell.

ASB: ideas tall, staff, cash small

Enthusiastic, but cautious. These seemed to be the key words to describe the Associated Student Body Commission which has three elected officers left of the five voted in last April.

"I love talking to people about ASB. Some of them think I'm crazy, but it works," says elected ASB President Debbie Baucom. Miss Baucom is a political science major who hopes to be a politician one day.

"I'm thinking about it (politics) on a local level."

There are a total of 12 positions on the ASB Commission. Besides the remaining three, seven have been appointed. The offices of secretary and commissioner of facilities.

Fall elections for five ASB offices, four now held by appointees will be Oct. 5 and 6. Time and location of the polling places have not been decided, although the filing deadline for

A recent federal ruling against all male or all female choruses may or may not affect Hartnell College's Conservatory of Music.

But if it does, the Conservatory's director is willing to take it to court.

The Conservatory, which is open to students between 4 and 21 years-old on Saturdays and weekday afternoons offers classes in string, and wind instruments, piano and boys chorus. No girls chorus is offered.

The July 30 Health Education and Welfare ruling, which Conservatory Director Dr. Vahe' Aslanian called "a bunch of crap" and Congressman Burt Talcott called ridiculous, states that no one can be excluded from a choir solely on the basis of sex.

"On the surface," band director Robert S. Lee commented, "the original ruling if taken at its face value -- that there be no sex discrimination -- in effect says choral directors cannot use music that is written specifically for only one sex."

Leonard Bernstein was cited by Aslanian as one contemporary composer who has written music for boy's voices only.

In a letter to HEW Secretary David Mathews, he also stated that several great composers, including Bach, Mahler and Britten devoted portions of their compositions to boys' voices because of the voice quality.

Aslanian claims that the voice

Mexicano group sold out

Editor's note: You can wait in line if you want, but the Ballet Folklorico Mexicano is sold out, Panther Sentinel learned at deadline.

Discounts for an exciting event: that's a benefit for Hartnell students because Hartnell College is co-sponsoring the event.

The Ballet Folklorico Mexicano will give one performance of its 1976-77 edition of "Fiesta Folklorico" at 8 p.m. tonight in the Salinas Community Center, next to the Rodeo grounds on North Main Street in Salinas.

The 35 performers will present 1,000 years of Mexican history which will be enhanced by authentic costumes, music and dances. Pulsating rhythms of Mariachi and Marimba bands, trios and a special Jarocho will accompany the dancers.

A cultural entity fashioned by scholars, researchers, artists, Folklorico is authorized by the Mexican Government as an official program of cultural exchange.

Ballet Folklorico Mexicano was selected by the World Festival of Entertainment to represent Mexico at EXPO '74 World's Fair. The performances will begin with the ancient pre-hispanic cultures which flourished in that country during the 3000 years preceding the arrival of the first Europeans.

The performance will cost $2.50 for adults; and $1.50 for students under 18, Hartnell students with I.D. cards, and senior citizens 62 or older.

Editorial

It must be more than high school ash trays

Across the nation, fall means back-to-school, football games, Halloween parties, colder weather and thoughts of plump Thanksgiving turkeys.

To the Hartnell student, it also means crowded parking lots, long lines and the hassle with classes -- maybe not enough to dampen the "old school spirit," but enough to give thought to "what am I doing here."

You might be tired of the phrase "higher education is the only way to get ahead," but it does have validity and will, I hope, become a reality for you, the student.

Gone are the days of flag burning and student marching. The reality of the seventies is with us.

Instead of chaos, we are experiencing a calm which carries with it a dreaded disease...student apathy.

This kind of apathy robs the student of realizing the total concept of the college learning experience.

It makes the student only aware of grades and the instructor paranoid about the "easy 'A'." Even to the point of teachers, fearful of student sharpshooting, covering their backsides through tests, term reports, and the no-fault percentage grading system.

Forgotten are the wide range of activities that Hartnell has to offer the student -- from varsity sports, crafts to the arts.

We realize that you can lead a horse to water,

However, we figure that it's our job to make that water enticing enough for you to want to satisfy your thirst.

Enticing enough that you will brave the chill of the night to support our football team...to relax and enjoy the warm sun during the spring Renaissance Fair or fill those vacant seats at the band concert.

ASB president asks, 'get involved', do part

by Debbie Baucom

On behalf of the Associated Student Body Commission of Hartnell, I would like to welcome each student to Hartnell for the 1976-77 school session, whether you are a new student or a returning student. It is our wish that you will take advantage of the many opportunities extended to you this year.

Upon registration at Hartnell, a person is automatically a member of the Associated Students of Hartnell. As such, he is entitled to the right to vote in all student elections, and permission to participate in student organizations. Should a student be registered for 9 units or more, and meet other requirements, he is allowed to run for and hold a position on the ASB Commission.

The 12 positions on the commission are the only voting positions, but there are many opportunities for all students to participate.

Every student is invited to attend all meetings of the commission. The commission is all responsible for seeing that there are students to serve on the various committees of the school, and these committee members do not necessarily have to be commission members. Toward the end of the school year, there are screening committees on which serve. The commission itself sponsors committees such as elections and social activities.

The only qualification is that the participant has a sincere desire to serve and represent the students.

The commission is responsible for sponsoring student activities and for serving as a liaison between the students and the administration. However, we can only be successful in these areas if we receive student cooperation, input and help. Do your part. Get involved.

No more raindrops on our heads [or on 25 new teachers]

No more buckets to catch the raindrops pouring from the ceiling. No more temperamental, creaking, rattling radiators that moan the start of a new school day.

No more nail gouged walls autographed for obscurity -- because they're going to be torn down any way.

No more cramped quarters.

For some instructors, all of this will cease next month when the Visual Arts facility next to the swimming pool is completed.

The VAF building will include: the art gallery with a removable skylight, rooms for creating sculptures, ceramics and jewelry; four color photo processing darkrooms plus darkrooms for black and white; separate journalism classes and facilities for the Sentinel 'backshop' and darkroom; and speech/communication, including a videotape control room.

Estimated completion date for this dream house is Oct. 15, according to College President Gibb Madsen. Unfortunately, President Madsen will have to suffer with the old Main building until next January, when it's expected the Classroom, Administration and Counseling (CRAC) building will be completed.

Handicapped get help

Changes have been made and special services have been added at Hartnell for handicapped students.

The major addition is the hiring of Wayne Davis as the Enabler, a counselor for handicapped persons.

Other additions include the blue signs which are located on the buildings equipped for handicapped persons. Lowered drinking fountains and ramps for students in wheelchairs are included in the new buildings, and an elevator is also being constructed in the new administration building.

If a handicap is too severe for someone to use public transportation, special transportation can be arranged.

For those who need special educational aids, tapes and transcripts, readers and mobility training are available.

Wheelchair basketball is also something new. Four to five persons are needed to for a team. Non-handicapped students can play too.

Those who can't play regular basketball are invited to join or to talk to Davis at the Career Center.

quality of a girl is different from a boy. He says that's why the chorus is limited to boys only.

Lee agrees. "The voice quality of boys' unchanged voices is different from either male or female voices. It's a peculiar quality that composers recognize..."

Aslanian says he would allow a girl to join the chorus "if she had a voice exactly like a boy." Yet, he maintains it is impossible for a girl to have the same voice as a boy.

"If they want to go to court over it (the decision), we'll go to court."

Aslanian says the HEW ruling infuriated him so much that he sent copies to President Ford, Congressman Talcott and Martin Gerry, director of the Office of Civil Rights.

All-boy and all-girl choruses are not prohibited by the ruling. But it does say that a girl can't be excluded from a boy's choir because she is a girl if her voice meets the requirements.

Enrollment drops 9 %

Enrollment is down from last year by nine percent.

"The reason for this drop," says Registrar Lewis Ham, is that "the V.A. benefits before 1966 have run out. That year (1966) was the first year that started the 10 year system."

However, because of the holidays and final registration, the total figure will not be known until a future date.

are no programs exclusively for boys in the public schools in Salinas.

Ironically, Aslanian started the boys chorus to eliminate the reverse discrimination he says exists against boys in the local junior high and high schools.

"You'll find there are more girls in school choruses," he says, because "boys don't like to be around girls." He claims the boys think singing is "sissy stuff."

He won't open a girl's chorus anyway.

"I'd like to get 60 boys for boy's chorus," Aslanian said. Last year five boys were in the chorus.

He claims he will not discriminate against girls because of their sex only on the basis of the quality of their voices.

"When you talk about discrimination, it's a strawman kind of thing," he said.

Beauty, how to achieve it, is the subject of a one-day free workshop designed for the older woman starting at 10 a.m. tomorrow in P.E. 134 and the Auxiliary Gym.

The workshop, "Fashion Flare For the Mature Woman," includes discussions and demonstrations concerning clothes, make-up, hair styles, poise and posture.

For information, contact Community Services Office.

Self enhancement, too

There is still room in the "Self Enhancement" course being offered from 7 to 9 p.m. on Fridays in room P.E. 134 and the Auxiliary Gym. The class will consist of lectures, demonstration and student participation in the various areas which comprise the total look--diet, exercise, posture, make-up, fashion, wardrobe and self confidence. The course is taught by Lorraine Crocker Althouse and there is a fee of $10.

She represents what she says is perhaps "the nation's largest ghetto."

She came closer to a presidential nomination than any woman in history.

She's Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm (Dem.-NY), and she'll speak as part of the Hartnell Presents series here on April 9. As with all Hartnell Presents programs, admission will be free.

In the first event of the series at 8 p.m. next Friday (Sept. 24) in the Little Theatre, a guitarist recognized as one of the top artists in his profession, Turan-Mizra Kamal, will give a concert.

From noon until 2 p.m. Friday, Kamal will offer a master class in classical guitar in PA 146. Students will only be able to observe, and will not be permitted to bring their own instruments.

Kamal has studied under masters in both Spain and Britain, including Andres Segovia.

Another possible speaker is U.S. Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan; however, because Ambassador Moynihan is running for Senator in New York, plans can not be made until after the November elections. Richard Stafford, director of community services, feels "we probably won't know until after the first of the

The Raymond Johnson Dance Company will appear in Salinas sometime in April and will include both a concert in the theatre and a masters class.

Helen Escobedo, sculptor and designer, will be at Hartnell sometime in April. Her program for the week will include workshops for the students in the visual arts, several seminars open to all students and public lecture with slides on Mexican art and culture.

The "Hartnell Presents" activities are selected by the Board of Trustees on recommendation of the Public Events Board.

Child Development Center ready in spring

Hartnell's new Child Development Center should be completed by spring, according to Child Development Director Mrs. Marjorie A. Ingram.

The center, located between the technology and performing arts buildings, will be able to handle 50 children. It will include a children's play area, an observation room with one-way see-through glass, and an instructional facilities workshop.

The center is now located in the student lounge area. It operates from 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Friday; and 1-4 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday. Regular nursery school classes are held in the morning on Tuesday and Thursday. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoon bilingual-bicultural development classes are taught by Mrs. Sonia Lee.

There are openings in both afternoon classes, but the morning class is full.

Children may be enrolled in the program for $20 a month by contacting Mrs. Ingram at extension 250.

placing a name on the ballot is Oct. 1.

To run for office, a student needs to be carrying at least nine units, have a grade point of at least 2.0, and have filled out a petition with 100 signatures from Hartnell students. Anyone enrolled in a class at Hartnell is eligible to vote.

The ASB Commission, which operates on a budget funded mostly from bank interest earned on savings accumulated in earlier years, got approval this summer from the Hartnell Board of Trustees for an estimated $10,000 budget for the 1976-77 years.

In contrast, last year's budget was $16,000. However, the ASB was instructed by the Board to trim that budget. Final expenditures for last year were $9,000.

Unlike past years and at most other colleges, the ASB expenses were only itemized for the fall semester. According to Miss Baum, "We presented it for just the fall semester so we could experiment with various activities to see what would be successful."

"We're being cautious about what we spend, but we're trying to get some activities going — like maybe one good movie and more noon concerts."

"We want to try a little of everything."

The first ASB sponsored event will be a dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. next Friday (Sept. 24) in the cafeteria.

Panthers look to even score and burn a little Redwood

The Hartnell College Panthers, under new head football coach Marvin Grim, formerly of Cerritos College, will be rekindling old flames when they meet the College of the Redwoods Saturday night in Eureka.

Kickoff time for the Hartnell-Redwoods game is 7:30 p.m.

Last year the Redwoods defeated Hartnell for the Northern California crown.

However, the Panthers, with a league season record of 4-0-1, found their first offensive in trouble as they were defeated by Foothill College 3-0 in the season's opening game. The redeeming factor for the Panthers came in their strong defense against Foothill.

According to coach Grim, two prospects to get the offensive ball rolling are sophomore Mike Silva, and Alisal graduate Dan Camacho, who are tying for the quarterback position.

The Panthers will play their first home game of the season against Reedley College Saturday, Sept., 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the Salinas High Stadium.

Swimmer sets ocean records, transfers to Cabrillo

An All American on last year's Hartnell swim team, Claire Shackelford, captured her third ocean swim record when she swam three and a half miles from San Francisco around Alcatraz and back.

Shackelford broke the previous record by swimming the distance in one hour and 26 minutes beating the old record by 12 minutes.

Swimming alongside Shackelford as a pacer was Hartnell swim coach Mike Garibaldi, who holds the men's records of one hour and 15 minutes for the swim.

Miss Shackelford also holds the record for two other ocean swims: the one-and-a-half-mile swim from Alcatraz Island to San Francisco, and the one-and-a-quarter-mile swim from one side of the Golden Gate Bridge to the other. She will return on Oct. 26 to defend her title in the Golden Gate swim.

She will be attending Cabrillo College this fall in their dental hygiene program.

According to Coach Garibaldi she plans to swim on the Cabrillo swim team, which means she will be competing against her former team mates at Hartnell.

Garibaldi concedes that, with the addition of Shackelford to the Cabrillo swim team, Cabrillo could become the top ranked team, but says he encouraged her to race before she can do it no longer.
